Project Study Areas

Eastside Unites is focusing on four study areas, shown on the map, to help bring the community's vision for a reconnected Eastside to life. We want to learn what improvements could help reconnect neighborhoods and undo the harms barriers have caused.

1 Study Area 1: This study area is the gateway between Downtown and the Eastside, near Hemisfair, the Alamodome, St. Paul Square, and the emerging sports and entertainment district. Underpasses link the two sides of the highway, and a Union Pacific rail line runs alongside it.

2 Study Area 2: This study area serves the Government Hill, Dignowity Hill, and Harvard Place-Eastlawn neighborhoods and is the Eastside's gateway from Fort Sam Houston. The Union Pacific East Yard lies just south of the highway, and roadway bridges connect its two sides.

3 Study Area 3: This study area serves community destinations like the Wheatley Heights Sports Complex and Salado Creek Greenway, as well as regional ones like the Frost Bank Center and Freeman Coliseum. Manufacturing and distribution uses lie west of the highway, and underpasses connect its two sides.

4 Study Area 4: This study area sits between the Denver Heights and Highland Park neighborhoods, with underpasses and bridges linking the two sides of the highway. Local destinations include the Denver Heights and James A. Bode community centers.
